Dog handling, training, and other services can be dangerous to you and your dog. Please carefully read and sign the release of liability below.

We/I, the undersigned, hereby acknowledge that we/I have voluntarily applied for dog owner/handler training, or related services, conducted by FAHS Representative. We/I fully understand that such training and services pose numerous risks to the health and safety of my dog and me. We/I freely and knowingly assume these risks, which include, but are not limited to, the following representative examples, which are not intended to be all-inclusive: risk of the owner/handler being bitten, scratched, soiled, tripped, yanked, jerked, attacked, frightened, or otherwise injured by other dogs in the classes, or by the owner/handler's own dog; risk of tripping over or sliding upon floor matting, dogs, or dog training-related objects, or slipping on dog drool or dog solid or liquid waste matter; and risk of colliding with dogs, other human participants, dog training props, dog jumps, dog obstacles, dog gating or building parts, including but not limited to walls, doors, and support beams. We/I take responsibility for any and all actions/behaviors of my dog(s) and me. I release FAHS/FAHS Representative, its members, officers, agents, and employees for any damages, injuries, or liabilities caused by my/our animal. Also, we/I will not hold FAHS/FAHS Representative, its members, officers, agents, and employees legally or financially responsible for any injury to my dog or me. I understand that I am responsible for my dog and its actions, and understand that the South Carolina Dog Bite Law holds me responsible for paying compensation for any injuries sustained to any person other than the trainer.
